Kansas Posse Successful After Long and Difficult Pursuit of Alleged Bank Robbers.

ONE PRISONER IS WOUNDED.

Men Concealed in Sand-Pits Surrender to Overwhelming Forces-Identified by a Merchant of Burrton.

Burrton, Kas., Oct. 21.-After a determined chase and a bloody battle the men who, it is alleged, looted the bank at this point were captured last evening on an lelind in the Arkansas River, fifteen miles from Burrton. A narty of thirty heavily armed men, led by the assistant cushier of the bank, E. E. Slive, then proceeded to wade across, while the rest of the pursuers covered the island with guns and revolvers. Seeing the overwhelming odds against them, the fugitives waved a white handkerchief and crawled from the sand-pits they had dug and surrendered. The men gave as their reason for being unable to escape that they were afoot and compelled to assist their wounded leader. It is thought that these men may be those who held up the eating-hours at Mc-Farland recornity. The men claim fleware from workers from Kansas City and Joplin.

The alleged handits had only $18 in their Friday in a battle between two of the pursuers and three of the alleged robbers, Harry Westmacotte, who was carrying a domin-barreled shotput, fired at the fugitives, and in addition to wounding one knocked a revolver from his hands. Friday afternoon 150 citizens formed at this point, and following a trail of blood and bloody rags across a plowed field, finally located the fugitives on a wooded beined in the Arkansas River, fifteen miles from Burrton.

The Guardian Angel." The Exposition people are making surprising of the title by Abbutt H. Thayer. If a copy, the fact was not made known by the Boston lury, nor does Callga's painting announce the fact. An investigation was begun to-day. Exposition people are making surprising the progress. Almost a transformation has taken place. Forest Park is alive with Reverent W. Banks Rogers, president of the university. The local was in Calwill to use it.

Taken as a whole, it is astonishing that the management has done so well with so tremendous an undertaking. It was the determination at the start to outdo Chicago. They will; there is no doubt about it at all. All but the Arts Palace are under roof. The Palace of Educa tion, Liberal Arts, Manufactures, Varied Industries, Machinery, Electricity and Agriculture are practically in shape, permitting of the moving in of exhibits, "Most of them, in fact, have been finished for months, with the exception of ished for months, with the exception of outer adortiments statuary reliefs and the like. The Mines and Mining building rapidly is approaching the concluding stage and the Transportation building will have reached its final strokes next month. The frame work of the stunning Government building is all up. The amnexes of the Art Palace are well along but the central building, being built of sione, moves more slowly.

PROGRESSIVE SPIRIT EVERYWHERE "All the lagoons are in readiness for the water; the remarkable triple cascade is "All the lagoons are in readiness for the water; the remarkable triple cascade is in form, and already the statues representative of the States within the Louisians Purchase are being placed. Back in the woods, where the State buildings so—and in their entirety will constitute the presistest feature ever characteristic of an exposition—there is pleaty of action. Chicago was by no means as far advanced six months ahead of the opening, and Chicago was cally half as beg.

"Outside the grounds there are indications of the progressive spirit. The Walback is clearing its portion of the Calla tract in the extensive terminals which will face the main entrance to the Exposition. Care is being observed not to disturb farther than necessary the natural beauty of the location, which immediately adjans the older and publicly used section of Forest Park. The large hotel, which the Wabash has planned in connection with its railway terminals, will have one of the most inviting sites imaginable.

The work that has been going on for a part in leveling and bringing to grade the very large open space just west of the Exposition grounds is about at an end, with the result that it is in demand for hotels and all kinds of structures naturally centering at such a convenient place. Some of it has been given over to loops for the electric car service, there appearing to be an adequate conception of what is to be expected later on.

The Fike should not be forgotten. It is to be expected later on.

The Fike should not be forgotten. It is to be the milway of the St. Louis Exposition, the good people on the Mississippi hanks being no more given to following those on the lake front in this respect than in any other. So it is the Pike. There, as elsewhere, movement is apparent and well all the less than a month they will have to get up early and stay late.

There is no clew to the murderer. As far as is known, the couple had no enemies. Mr. Bevans, who was unable to apost, wrote on a piece of paper last night that he had no blea who the man was. The Sheriff and a posse are now warching the neighboring country for the man.

CAR OF DYNAMITE EXPLODES AFTER SHARP COLLISION.

Mr. Chas. J. Machle, 225 hayton street, St. Louis, in speaking of his cure of caturrh and deafness and lead noises, said:

"From my personal experience of the Powell Institute treatment for catarrhal disease in its worst stage, including deafness and head noises. I must say that it seems to be marked by scientific precision and accuracy and by a remarkable degree of skill and intelligence. The treatment costs practically nothing, but not-withstanding the fact of its being so very inexpensive, its marked efficiency is seen in the way it takes hold of the most stubborn and difficult disease and achieves not only its mastery, but its permanent cure. For zeven years I have not been able to bear a watch tick. The treatment has been a wonderful success in my case; it has stopped the head noises and completely restored the heading." Mr. Chas. J.
